

ACFS Helps Families:

- With information about the screening center
- Understand the screening process
- Provide screeners with all information that may be helpful to your loved one's recovery
- Be informed about possible outcomes of the screening process
- Understand diagnoses and treatment options
- Know about and access community resources
- All while providing compassionate ongoing support during the crisis

For more information
please call us at:

(732) 235 - 5000

Acute Care
Family Support

Serving Families of Middlesex County
(732) 235 - 5000

ubhc.rutgers.edu

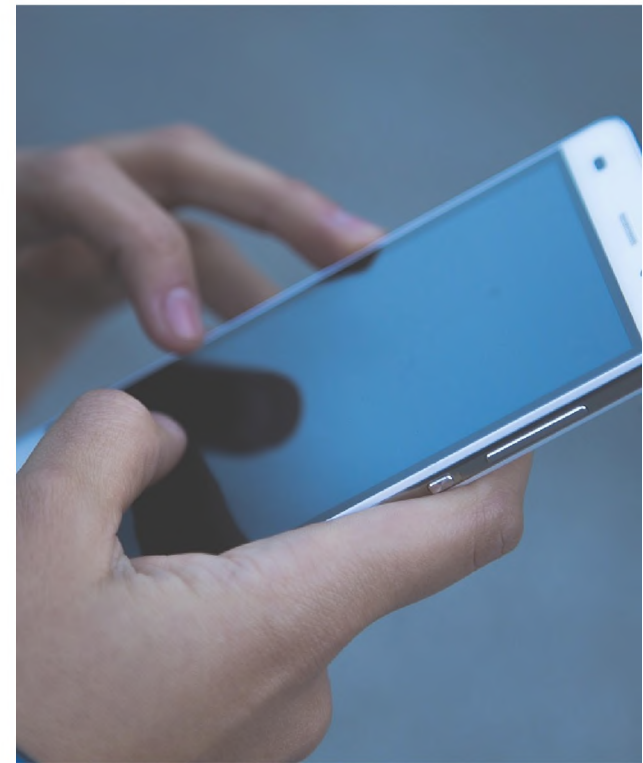

Acute Care Family Support

The Acute Care Family Support (ACFS) program is available to help caregivers of people with serious mental illness cope during times of crisis. Many people with mental illness can live full and productive lives with treatment and supports. Screening may be the first step to helping your loved one achieve wellness. Funded by the New Jersey Division of Mental Health and Addiction Services, this program is offered in collaboration with Intensive Family Support Services (IFSS) of Middlesex County.

Did you know?

Family support can be crucial in helping people diagnosed with mental illness achieve stability and meet recovery goals. It is critical for all involved to understand mental illness, its symptoms, and how it can impact the family system.

At your request the ACFS mental health professional can outreach you within 24 hours to provide information and support during the screening process.

Please provide your name and phone number to the screener working with your loved one and ask them to refer you to ACFS of Middlesex County!